

A national pharmaceutical manufacturer wanted to turn an unused telephone bank with dividing walls into functional storage.

Studio took the existing dimensions of the walls and developed custom built in storage lockers that accommodated the storage requirements of the client.

The laminate was selected to match the existing wood shelving, and with storage space that fit the customer's needs and budget.

Built in storage lockers with one tall locker and two stacked units.

The storage lockers fit within the existing design and matched the existing shelf space.
